VOTE FOR F. F. Robbins FOR MAGISTRATE FIFTH DISTRICT

COMPOSED OF THE TWO BRODHEAD, WILDER
AND CONWAY VOTING PRECINCTS

In making this announcement for Magistrate of the fifth District, I submit to the voters of this county, my record as an officer of Rockcastle County during the short time I have served you; you will remember that I was nominated without opposition two years ago to fill the unexpired term of Mr. W. C. Hopkins.

If re-elected, I pledge myself to make you a sober officer and devote my time to the duties of this office and the upbuilding of Roads, Churches and Sunday Schools in this County.

Soliciting your support at the Republican Primary August 6th, 1921, I am your friend,

F. F. ROBBINS,
Brodhead, Ky.

William S. Hart a Desert Guide With a Mission of Revenge in his Latest Artcraft Picture, "Wagon Tracks"

Graphic Story of the Days of the Gold Rush and Emigrant Trains Provides Star With Unusually Dramatic and Appealing Photoplay

BUCKSKIN HAMILTON, son of the new Empire, a desert guide, is waiting to meet at Westport Landing, his brother who has graduated as a doctor through Buckskin's sacrifices. — Billy is to arrive on the St. Louis boat. On the vessel he meets Jane Washburn who is traveling to the landing with her father, a gambler and his henchman, Merton.

Billy gets into a game and finds Washburn is cheating. — He accuses the gambler and there is a struggle over the possession of the gun that Washburn has pulled. Merton is of no help and Billy is getting the best of it when Jane enters and grapples with the youth thinking he is trying to kill her brother. Washburn seizes the revolver and shoots Billy dead. She is crazed, thinking she shot him. The gambler presses this on her mind and when she comes out of a swoon, tells her she must say she did it in defending herself from Billy Hamilton.

Buckskin comes aboard looking for his loved brother and his grief at the denouement is pathetic. The girl accuses herself, but he will not believe that the youth attacked her and thinks there is a mistake somewhere.

From Council Grove, Kansas the wagon trains are preparing to start for Santa Fe via the old trail. This is in 1850. The Washburns and Merton are in the train which Buckskin is to captain. On the desert two of the water wagons tumble over a precipice and they are in a serious predicament. Finally Jane confesses that Billy had not annoyed her and Buckskin is finally certain that she did not do the shooting — that her brother or Merton is guilty. He captures the two men at dead of night and lashing them together marches them without water across the desert. He tells them that when they have suffered enough the innocent one will speak.

Meanwhile the train is going on in search of a water hole. A band of Indians inclined to be friendly halts the caravan. But in a moment of madness over a fancied slight to his wife one of the tenderfeet shoots a brave. The upshot of this is that the chief demands a life for a life. He gives the travelers till dawn to decide or be wiped out.

Buckskin finally has wrung a confession from Merton that Washburn killed Billy. He is marching them back to just retribution, but when he reaches the wagon train and learns the situation with the Indians, He decides Washburn must be the sacrifice. But Jane pleads and Buckskin decides to let her brother kill himself and gives him a pistol. Buckskin figures to sacrifice his own life to the Indians.

Washburn fires a shot in the air at night and runs away. Buckskin starts walking toward the Indian camp. But the redskins have moved during the night and Washburn walks into their arms. They believe he is the sacrifice and accept him as such. Buckskin finds the deserted camp and then sees the actual happening.

Jane has learned to love Buckskin, but between them is always the shadow of the slain brother.

"Maybe you'll come back some day," she says wistfully as he rides away.

"Mebbe," he says sadly and vanishes into the spreading dawn.

Bryant Mr. Phillips will move back to his farm near Hiatt. — Some young men from Livingston were caught here Sunday being and were arrested and put in the calaboose. — Mrs. Willie Adams who was burned last week is getting along nicely.

MRS. ALICE GRESHAM DODD, mother of first American soldier killed in France, who gives entire credit for recovery of her health to the well-known medicine, Tanlac.

The following remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. Alice Gresham Dodd, the mother of Corporal Jas. B. Gresham, who was the first American soldier killed in France. The statement was made at the Gresham Memorial Home, which was presented to her by the patriotic people of Indiana as an evidence of their appreciation of the services rendered to his country by her son.

The shock of her son's death resulted in a serious breakdown in Mrs. Dodd's health, but every one will learn with interest and pleasure that she is now in splendid health again. Mrs. Dodd gives the entire credit for her recovery to the celebrated medicine, Tanlac.

She said: "After my dear boy's death I had a general breakdown in health. At first it was just indigestion. My food would upset me and I had to diet myself very carefully. I also had rheumatism with severe pains in my shoulders, back and arms and at times I would suffer greatly and my joints would become swollen and stiff. I was hardly able to do but very little about the house and at times could not even cook a meal. I became very nervous and restless and at night would lie awake for hours.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Tanlac. I am glad I did for it proved to be the best medicine I have ever taken. It soon gave me a splendid appetite and relieved me entirely of indigestion. My rheumatism also disappeared and I am now able to do my house work with the greatest ease. My nerves are steady and strong. I sleep well at night and my health is better than in years. I shall always be grateful for what Tanlac has done for me."

Tanlac is sold in Mt. Vernon by Chas. C. Davis; in Brodhead by the Brodhead Pharmacy; and in Livingston by R. G. Webb; in Burr by W. M. Owens.

gave a nice talk at Sunday School we are always glad to have him with us for we know that he has an interest in the church here. — Mr. and Mrs. Edd Latham spent Saturday and Sunday with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Will Cummings at Bandy. — Miss Lotis Bloomer has returned to her home at Ocala after two weeks stay here. — Harve Brown the huxter man makes his trips through the country each week paying the highest prices for produce. He comes to J. L. Hastys every Friday.

Earle Phillips — FOR — County Court Clerk

After careful consideration, and after having carefully canvassed a goodly portion of Rockcastle County, and after having been urged by some of the county's prominent citizens and good sober minded hard thinking men, I have decided to make the race for County Court Clerk, and take this means of announcing myself as a candidate for that office. Subject to the action of the Republican Primary August 6th, 1921.

So far I have never asked for a county office. I have always been a Republican and have always tried, as I saw it, to vote my sentiments as regards the welfare of our County, State and Nation.

I am an ex-soldier and have done my share of suffering in that capacity.

As for my record as a citizen, and qualifications for the office they are open for investigation anywhere I have been known or lived.

If I am nominated and elected to this important office I promise to keep a sober clean office, for I consider sobriety the fine qualification of an officer or citizen. My life in this regard is an open book and I solicit your support for this office.

EARLE PHILLIPS.

Everett Reynolds is a Rockcastle boy, of whom our people are justly proud. He is sixteen best all around club boy in years old and resides with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Reynolds, near Hummel. He is one of the leaders of the Junior Agriculture Club of that place. The largest cup shown in the picture is for the greatest yield of corn, which he grew of Kentucky.

This progressive young man in the small cup shown above now putting old Rockcastle on the map. Luck to them all.
